A gift from

Celeste Longacre

author of

Celeste’s Garden Delights

Discover the many ways a garden can nurture you

Copyright ©2015 Celeste Longacre
http://celestelongacre.com/Many crops can be planted as soon as the snow melts. Among them:

- snow peas
- peas
- lettuce
- Brussels sprouts
- broccoli
- cabbage
- Napa cabbage
- beets
- carrots
- parsnips
- turnips & rutabaga
- radishes
- Swiss chard
- kale
- onions
- leeks
- potatoes (although the young leaves need to be covered if frost threatens)
- pansies
- snapdragons
- sweet peas
Tender Crops

Do not plant until after the last frost

tomatoes eggplant cucumbers sweet potatoes beans basil squash peppers most annual flowers

Spinach is best as a fall crop.

(I plant mine the second week of August—they go in where the onions come out.)

Garlic is planted in mid-October.